Smallpox Epidemic Originated in the William George Home in February
so Officer Learns.

RILEY GEORGE CARRIED IT

Discovered That Fifteen People, and Possibly More, Have Suffered With Ailment.

That a smallpox epidemic in a mild form has prevailed in the south-eastern part of the county since last February, was determined by Dr. Frank H. Green, county health officer, today after due investigation had been made. It was found that the first case was located in the home of Mr. and Mrs. William George, south of New Salem, when their son Riley came home from Omaha, Nebraska, with the disease. It is believed that the disease has been prevalent there since that time, but that it was never discovered until Tuesday, when it was found that Ray Kelso was afflicted with it. The investigation has resulted in the discovery of the fact that no less than fifteen that the homes are all open and good have been in that vicinity since February.

The county health commissioner said today that there was no need for alarm over the situation. He says that there are not more than two or three cases of any consequence now as most all of the patients who have been found to be suffering with the ailment, are on the road to recovery. He declares that smallpox is not near so dangerous in the summer time as it is in the winter, due to the fact that the homes are all open and good ventilation is had. The fact that the epidemic has existed since February and so few cases have resulted from the many people who no doubt have been exposed, is proof enough that there is no need for fear.

The only fear that the health commissioner expressed is that the disease may be harbored in some homes, due to carelessness, until the winter comes, when the epidemic would spread much more easily and would be more severe than at this time. The officer announces that people with an illness which might cause them to suspect that they have smallpox and who do not report it to a physician, will be liable to prosecution and the officials are very anxious to get the disease stamped out before the winter months arrive. All of the homes where it is known that there have been cases, have been or will be carefully fumigated so that there will be no danger of the disease being harbored there until cold weather. All of the homes where the disease has been found and where patients just recovering from it have been discovered have been quarantined and they will be carefully fumigated.

It is to be hoped that the disease will be stamped out before the winter months as an epidemic might lie dormant for several months and then suddenly break out when homes are all closed up. That there is no danger of the disease spreading to this city is evidenced by the fact that it did not break out here when an attempt was not being made to stamp it out.

It will be remembered that Riley George suffered the loss of his right arm while working on a railroad in Omaha, Nebraska, last winter. As soon as he was able, he came to his home below New Salem and suffered with a slight illness for several days. He thought nothing of it and no physician was called. Two of his brothers had the same ailment and one of them has several large pox

ORIGINATES A NEW IDEA

MANY LEAVE CITY FOLLOWING RAID

Police Say Several Whose Names
They Have, Have Skipped Out to Avoid Arrest.

MAY HAVE TRIAL NEXT WEEK

The police say they are having difficulty in locating some of the parties found in the raid of Sunday afternoon. There seems to have been a general exodus from this city immediately following the raid for at least three boys are said to have skipped. The officers did not put anyone under arrest, but took the names of the men and boys as they left the room and now when an effort is made to find some of them, the police are left in the cold as they have "beat it." Several of the boys' parents have reported their disappearance and asked the officers to locate them, not knowing their reason for leaving home. The trial, it is said, will not be set until some time next week and by then the "deserters" may be back home.

MAKES AUTOMOBILE WITH OWN HANDS

Meredith Hall, 17 Years Old, Invents
New Kind of Motor Which he Uses in Machine.

HE IS A MECHANICAL GENIUS

Meredith Hall, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. G. Hall of Mays, is riding in his own automobile, designed and made by his own hands. The young man, who is only seventeen years old, has always displayed unusual ability along that line and has been working untiringly for months on his latest invention. The remarkable thing about the machine is that the boy has an invention on the motor which it is believed will be a very valuable help to the automobile world. He will not explain the invention until he has it duly patented. He made the machine in which he now rides from old parts gathered up by him and has found that it has a speed of twenty miles an hour. It may go faster, but he has never attempted to taunt Providence.

Besides having unusual inventive ability, the seventeen-year-old boy weighs two hundred and thirty-two pounds and is six feet and a half inch tall.

WILL INTERPRET SCHOOL STATUTE

Manual of Instruction Prepared by State Board of Health Will be Spread Broadcast.

FOR TEACHERS AND OFFICIALS

Among Subjects Treated Will be the Arguments for Medical Inspection of All School Children.

A manual of instruction to teachers, county superintendents, school boards and other school officials is ready to go to the State printer from the office of the State board of health. It is perhaps the most ambitious attempt at an intelligent review of the school inspection question which ever has been made by a State board of health. The State board of education, empowered jointly with the State board of health by the recent Indiana general assembly to begin the work of education on school inspection question among the teachers of the State, ratifying the primary work on the manual done by the State board of health, and the latter board practically has supervised the remainder of the work.

When the manual leaves the printer within the next few weeks copies will be sent to practically every teacher, superintendent, principal and school commissioner in Indiana. It will touch on all phases of school hygiene laws existing in Indiana, and in addition will contain instructions to teachers concerning medical examination of children.

Among the subjects treated in the manual will be arguments for medical inspection, the school inspection law passed at the last Indiana general assembly, an argument for sanitary school houses and the sanitary schoolhouse law, rules for quarantine and exclusion from school, directions for disinfection of school-rooms, rules for the school inspectors, rules for teachers, rules for testing sight, rules for testing hearing, and blank forms for the keeping of inspection records.

The latter instructions are to be given with a view to providing statistical information from all Indiana schools, wherein medical inspection is established in uniform returns to the State board of health. From these returns information will be acquired, according to State health officers, which may be used in replying to numerous inquiries being received daily by the State board of health from other States in regard to medical inspection of school children.

Information is sought by teachers and other persons throughout the State concerning the existing laws on school inspection and hygiene in Indiana, and the contemplated manual will be designed to answer the majority of these questions, according to members of the office force under Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the State board of health.

The medical inspection law made the State board of education responsible for the formulation of rules for medical inspection of children. The rules were to be formulated jointly by both State boards. After an investigation of the work being done by Dr. Hurty the State board of education allowed the other board to take up the burden of compiling the manual.

FILED DIVORCE SUIT.

Mrs. Nellie Collier of near Raleigh has filed suit for divorce from her husband, Louis Collier, through her attorneys, Sexton & McCollin. Mrs. Collier alleges in the complaint that he failed to provide for her and makes this the grounds for the proceedings.

MARRIED LIFE IS VERY SHORT

St. Paul Couple Separates Before Ink on Marriage License Scarcely Gets Dry.

TRY TO KEEP WEDDING SECRET

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Allison Are Now Living Apart and Divorce Suit is Rumored.

The sudden and secret marriage of Frank M. Allison and Mrs. Anna Burcholzer, prominent people of the St. Paul community, failed to bring the happiness they reasonably expected would come their way after their flirtation with the Hon. Daniel Cupid, and they have separated even before the marriage license could be placed on record at the clerk's office at Shelbyville.

The license was issued May 15 and at the time the application blanks were hidden in the safe at the office as the couple wished to keep the fact of their wedding a secret for a few days. The blanks were not placed where the Shelbyville newspaper reporters could get a look at them till last Saturday and long before that the marriage had been announced in papers there as the friends of the couple were not long in finding out the secret they were so zealously guarding.

For a few weeks all went well with the couple and their friends were greatly surprised to discover recently that they had separated and were living in their separate homes. They have made no public statements as to the cause of their disagreement. It is said that Mrs. Allison will apply for a divorce and that she has retained Shelbyville attorneys to file the proceedings.

Mr. Allison is a retired farmer and capitalist and his wife is the owner of a fine farm located south of St. Paul. Both are well past the meridian of life. There is some reason to suppose that the marriage was in reality one of the "trial" sort from the beginning as the couple made strenuous efforts at the time of the ceremony to keep the matter a secret. The facts leaked out, however, and were published a week or so ago.

WILL TEST NEW WELL TOMORROW

City Authorities Plan to Pump Water Out and Measure Flow With a Meter.

BELIEVED TO BE A RECORD ONE

Tomorrow the city will know just how much water the well which is being dug just south of the Pinnell, Tompkins Lumber Company buildings will give. When it is completed it will be attached to the city mains and it is expected that the supply will be greatly benefited. Wells will be drilled until the supply is sufficient.

A large air-lift pump will be here tomorrow and it will be attached to the engine on the well drilling machine. The water will be lifted from the bottom of the well. A meter will be used to measure the water and in that manner the flow will be determined to the gallon. It is deemed wise to know just how much may be expected of the well. The city authorities are inclined to believe that it will be a record well and will give a record flow.

OFFICERS HERE ON INSPECTION TOUR

Special Train Carrying L. E. & W. and Lake Shore Officials Was in Rushville Yesterday.

THEY PUT IN AN ACTIVE DAY

H. A. Boomer, general superintendent of the Lake Erie & Western Railway Company and W. A. Terry of Chicago, assistant traffic manager of the Lake Shore and L. E. & W., together with several division officials, were here yesterday evening inspecting the property of the company. They were here only for a short time and left for Fort Wayne on an inspection tour.

The party traveled on a special train, consisting of an engine and one car. The regular inspection engine is built with a cab over the boiler and pilot and is a very peculiar looking thing. The party covered much territory yesterday before arriving in this city. They were in Muncie yesterday morning and arrived at New Castle about 10 o'clock. The company's property was inspected to Comersville and the special train was back in New Castle at one o'clock. After a brief tour the train came here and returned to New Castle last evening.

TEARING DOWN THE TABERNACLE

Workmen Are Razing Building and Material Will be Hauled to City Park at Once.

TO BE BUILT SUBSTANTIALLY

Chautauqua Promoters Expect to Work on Tenting Feature With Renewed Vigor This Year.

Work was started this morning at tearing down the tabernacle at the corner of Subway and Perkins street and it is thought that the job will be completed before many days have elapsed. The material will be hauled to the city park where the structure will be rebuilt in a more substantial manner for the coming chautauqua which will be held August 6 to the 13, inclusive.

The committee in charge of the razing, hauling and erection of the tabernacle, had planned to let the contract for the whole job by sealed bids and the estimates were duly received. The committee found that the bids were greater than the whole building cost the chautauqua association. After that they concluded that it would be much cheaper to hire labor by the day to do all the work as has been done.

It required most of the day for workmen to tear the roofing off and a small part of it was destroyed. It is thought that the building will be down possibly by the end of this week and ready to haul to the city park. The work will be started at once to rebuilding it so that it will be ready in ample time for the coming assembly. The arrangements for seats have not yet been made, but it is stated that comfortable seats will be obtained.

The tabernacle is expected to better greatly the conditions at the chautauqua this year. The building will be such that there will be no necessity of postponing or discontinuing any programs on account of inclement weather. Past assemblies have been marred by bad weather due to the fact that the tent was not much of a screen from heavy rains or strong winds.

Efforts will be made with renewed vigor this year to make the tenting a feature of the chautauqua. In past years that has always been a very pleasant feature of the event and it is hoped by the management that it will prove to be even more popular this year. Tents will be rented at a reasonable rate and already several people have signified their intentions of "sleeping out" during the chautauqua.

FREAK CHICK IS HATCHED

George Keppel of Blue Ridge Has One With Seven Toes.

George C. Keppel, one of Blue Ridge's prominent residents, has a freak chicken, which, if it lives, will bring him more money than a spring fry would about Christmas time, says the Shelby Democrat. The chicken has seven toes instead of the usual four on one of its feet. Not content with this piece of freakism, one of the seven toes has a perfectly marked chicken-head. The upper and lower bills are plainly formed with a black spot for an eye just above. The chicken has been hatched about two weeks and seems to be thriving. It certainly is a monstrosity and if it lives to any size, the side-show men will be after it.

WYETH'S SAGE AND SULPHUR HAIR REMEDY

Grew a Full Growth of Hair on a Bald Head

Here's the Proof

For two or three years my hair had been falling out and getting quite thin, until the top of my head was entirely bald. About four months ago I commenced using Sage and Sulphur. The first bottle seemed to do some good and I kept using it regularly, until now I have used four bottles. The whole top of my head is now fairly covered with hair and it keeps coming in thicker. I shall keep on using it a while longer, as I notice a constant improvement.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

SO MANY DIVORCES.

(Shelbyville Republican.)
During the term of court which came to an end Saturday Judge Blair heard the evidence in twenty-one divorce cases and in nineteen cases he granted divorces, the plaintiffs in two of these cases being prevented from marrying within two years. Four divorce cases were dismissed during the term and there are still fourteen divorce cases on the docket.

There are also several divorce cases on the Shelby Superior court docket which will probably be heard the first term of this court, which will be called by Judge Pliny W. Bartholomew, of Indianapolis, when he opens court here Monday, September 4th.

During the term just passed fifty-seven cases were heard and there are still one hundred and four cases on the dockets. This is only the civil court docket. There are many more on the criminal, probate and juvenile court dockets.

MAY FOLLOW RUSHVILLE.

(Columbus Republican.)
Among the members of the city council there seems to be considerable favorable sentiment "clustering" about the proposition to install a new system of street lights for the city and it seems altogether likely that the proposed new system will be adopted by the council. At any rate there is much talk along these lines.

Should the new lights be adopted they will be in clusters much on the order of those in the City Park. The lights would add much to the appearance of the city streets and it is said that the service from them would be even more satisfactory than the present lights and that they could be maintained as cheaply, if not more cheaply than the present lights.

Read what Foley Kidney Pills have done for your neighbor. W. H. Ap-legate of Shelbyville, Ind., says that "I have long been troubled with kidney trouble and for the past few years it has been of a far more serious nature and caused me much worry. My limbs were all swollen up with rheumatism. My back pained me terribly, so that I could hardly get around and my kidneys were very weak and made me get up several times each night. I then started taking Foley Kidney Pills and they built my kidneys right up, giving them strength and causing them to act naturally. I am never bothered now with getting up at night and the swelling and rheumatism in my limbs has entirely left and I feel like a new man. I can safely recommend Foley Kidney Pills as the quickest and best cure for kidney and bladder trouble that I know of." F. B. Johnson

In the matter of appropriating money for band concerts in the City Park the members of the council seem inclined to shy at the proposition. At least some of them have expressed themselves as unfavorable to it and have added that in their opinion there are many things which the city needs more than it needs music and that the money necessary for the band concerts might be more profitably expended in other sources.

SOME FISH STORIES.

(Greensburg News.)

Rather fishy stories have originated since the new ruling of the State game and fish commissioner, whereby they send out seines and then ask the men to catch up all but the game fish. It is told of George Hess, a St.
Paul capitalist, who is deputy with the power to hold a seine, that he was out in Flatrock with a company of men and in the seine was found a 4-pound bass. It was picked out looked over with envious eyes, and then Hess actually kissed it full in the month before throwing it back into the water, with the remark that he would catch it with a hook and line if it took all summer.

Bartholomew county now has one even bigger than this—that is, the fish was larger. Frank Harris, who is a deputy with the power to seine, was out and dipped up a six pound bass. Each member of the party took a good long look at the fish and then it was turned back into the water. So far none of the local fishermen have had such heart-rending scenes to go through with.

NEWCASTLEMAN, HUMAN DYNAMO

Employee of Maxwell-Briscoe Plant is Rendered Helpless by Air Charged With Electricity.

FALLS DOWN A STAIRWAY

Body Attracts Current and Friends
Must "Ground" Him to Bring Relief.

A human dynamo or a living magnet can be the appellation appropriately applied to Jed Welch of this city, a well-known employee of the Maxwell-Briscoe plant and a popular member of Philo's lodge, Knights of Pythias, says the New Castle Courier. By some strange caper of nature Welch's entire body is susceptible to electricity and during times when the atmosphere is heavily charged he became thoroughly saturated with the element and loses the use of his limbs and power of speech.
Every muscle and nerve in his body become affected and heroic measures are necessary to restore him to his natural condition one night recently during the electrical display Welch suffered intensely. He was at the meeting of Philo's lodge and was stricken with the electro ailment while descending the stairway and fell headlong to the bottom. The unfortunate man was removed to the office of a doctor where he was treated and the attack relieved.

The electricity was removed from the man's body by absorption. A number of friends formed a circle and clasped his hands, allowing the current to pass from his body into theirs. They could easily feel the electricity in its passage.

Welch's feet were also "grounded" by placing them against a steam radiator. That treatment assisted in relieving the unusual condition. Within a period of a half hour Welch was able to return to his boarding house.
The only ill effect of the attack was a sluggish feeling and a drowsy condition.

Welch has long been a puzzle to the medical fraternity. He has been examined on numerous occasions by physicians, none of whom have been able to solve the problem of his ailment.

The First Job.

A host of young men are this month lining up to a factory bench or office desk for the first time in their lives, and Saturday nights they put in their pocket the first money ever earned for a week's work. No pay envelope they draw in later life, no matter how fat, will ever look so good to them.

The one thing for them to think of in taking their first employments, is as to whether their new tasks are such as to lead to bigger things.

The nimble fingers of a boy sometimes command a range of pay out of all proportion to the importance of an employment. A fifteen year old boy feels proud at earning $1.50 a day folding circulars. But let him reflect that if he was to fold circulars all his life, he would never get any more than that.

Most young men are too anxious for big pay quick. Instead they should utterly disregard the size of the first year's salary, and think only of getting into a line of work in which there are chances to rise.

Frank Hitchcock makes it clear that he is not engaged, but we have no doubt there are many young women who would like to ride through life on the post master general's famous steam roller.

W. E. D. Stokes would not have all these troubles had he known that conservative persons communicate with their women friends by means of the shady park bench rather than the postoffice.

Senator Kern gave out a statement in Indianapolis the other day to the effect that he had gone into the Lorimer matter far enough to be convinced that conditions in Illinois were rotten, says the Marion Chronicle. Senator Kern gave out a statement a year ago last December to the effect that conditions in Indiana were so rotten that the state brewery machine had purchased eight votes of members of the legislature that had been pledged to him, thereby electing to the senate his colleague, Senator Shively. The position of Senator Kern now is, however, that by consenting to his election two years later the state brewery machine has completely wiped out its guilt and purified his party. Therefore the investigation of the senator into putridity is to be focused across the state line.

Louisiana has abolished the roller towel, but the citizens of the state can still dry their hands on their trousers.

There was just one person present to hear of the senatorial speeches the other day, and the reason why he listened has never been thoroughly explained.

An elephant and a donkey are racing from Coney Island to Washington, and having given a wide berth to Oyster Bay, one of them will perhaps get there.

The president took eight senators on the yacht Mayflower, and if he made them swallow reciprocity, it probably soon found its way into the sea.

The government has signed a treaty to protect the seals, but if their skins become common again, you can't persuade the Smart Set to wear them any more.

Germany has about decided to join the peace-by-arbitration compact. When Great Britain, Germany and the United States combine upon a proposition the way is easy for the rest of the world.

The Eskimos of St. Michaels, our Northernmost extremity, have petitioned the government for a postal savings bank. They complain that they have to dig holes in which to bury their money. And digging a hole, anywhere under the Arctic circle, is a job no man likes.

The man who "gets mad" is disliked by every body. His best friends "make allowances" for him which in itself is a confession of his weakness of character. The man who smiles and keeps his temper at all times, even when beset by annoyances and provocations, elicits the admiration of others and wins their confidence and esteem. Thus good nature is really a business asset, and nowhere in the world is valued more highly than in this country. As a matter of fact it is a great deal easier for the good natured, pleasant mannered fellow to go through the world than for the grouchy or the touchy individual who is always looking for slights and finding them where they do not exist.

The Lafayette Courier expresses an idea when it says that after all it is the interurban that returns more people to the farm than all the high flown, back-to-the-farm rhetoric. The interurban annihilates distance and the inconvenience of living in the country. It brings the urban and the rural communities together and its influence on the city is as good as on the country for the reason that it has a tendency to break down the barriers between the more artificial life of the city and the more simple life of the country. Another factor in this process of amalgamation is the rural free delivery which gives the farmer his paper fresh from the press the same as his city neighbor and keeps him in daily touch with the activities of the world.

About this time of the year most towns and cities are invaded by canvassers for all sorts of advertising schemes. There is practically no limit to the resources of these glib-tongued advertising boosters. Being free and carrying no sort of responsibility, they do not hesitate to make all sorts of representations, promises and assurances. Having pocketed their commissions, they go hence to new conquests in their line of operation. Their devious methods become known after they are gone, and then it is too late to hold them to account. Business and professional men who want to advertise can do so direct with newspapers of the city—and experience teaches that methorical newspaper advertising is the only effective and remunerative way of reaching the attention of the purchasing and patronizing public. Artful schemes to separate persons engaged in legitimate business pursuits from their "good money" ought to be disencouraged and frowned upon whenever approached by the seductive smiles of these roving adventures.

Stylish Parish women are having to change their clothes 11 times a day, 'tis said, but we suspect that some of their husbands have to remain in bed because they can't get money for a business suit to wear down town.

Because of Agriculture's increasing importance, the Statistical Abstract for 1910, which the National Government is getting out, will give more space to the agricultural section of the country than did any of its predecessors.

As population must keep on growing a time will soon come when the home supply of wheat, corn, pork, beef and other foods will be barely sufficient for the home demand. Then we will have to import some of it, as Great Britain has been doing for more than two-thirds of a century.

There is certainly an incentive for the farmer to employ all his skill in his calling. The home market, which is the profitable market, for his products is increasing much faster than are the products. There is a limit to the acreage of farm lands. That limit has not yet been reached, but it will be before many more decades pass. Irrigation is beginning to make the desert blossom, but a country which increases its population by 16,000,000 in a decade must soon people all the new acres which irrigation furnishes. As a large proportion of the newcomers drift into the factories instead of going to the farms, they increase the demand for food faster than the supply grows. The census of 1920 will see a much greater decennial expansion in population west of the Mississippi than that of 1910 revealed. All the resources of scientific cultivation of the soil must be brought into requisition by the American farmer if he is to continue to supply the American consumer without calling in outside aid. The desert lands are being irrigated and the swamps are being drained. Thus hundreds of millions of acres will be added to the area susceptible to high cultivation. But the gain from these sources will have to be rapid if it is to keep pace with the growth of consumption.

Looks like the heat wave had its backbone broken today.

Half the year gone! 'Fore long we will be looking for the delapidated snow shovel and empty coal bin.

'Tis said that the tabernacle is located on the Subway and it has been made in the form of an edict that the alley there shall be forever known by that name.

Now that Walter of the Greensburg Democrat has admitted that he got the point all right, we are satisfied, even if he does believe it legitimate to swipe all the dispatches in Metropolitan papers if he pays his money for the papers. Why don't you get on the exchange list, ole top?

We see that an army officer is quoted as having that Greensburg and Shelbyville will furnish excellent material for a recruiting station. Now if that's anything to get excited about.

Certain scribe has said that poverty is all right if you don't indulge in it.

Perhaps, after all, that home print idea may not be as practical as it first appeared to be.

And anyway, besides a lot of papers, "who ought to know better," without resorting to the use of any glittering generalities, we know one paper in particular which seems to lack the originality to express its own opinions. We won't quibble over some one else's ideas.

It's cool here today, and for this, many thanks. We can't forget July 3, when Rushville copped the first money in the hot weather sweepstakes, open to all. Phoenix scored 102 and Washington took third position and saved the entrance fee by registering a fraction over 99.

marks on his face as a result. The county health commissioner supposed that Mr. George caught the disease on the train or in Omaha and gave it to his brothers who in turn distributed it about the neighborhood. One new case was reported today and six were found yesterday by the county health officer and other physicians in that neighborhood. The case discovered today was in the Browning home but it is not a severe one. The patient is suffering with only a mild form of the malady and his early recovery is predicted. Of the six that were found by the physicians yesterday only one of them is at all serious. Barney White, living on the Tom J. Downey farm, is very sick, but his condition is by no means critical. It is thought that he will recover in a few weeks. Mr. White's wife, son and daughter have all suffered with the disease, but they are almost recovered. It is thought that Mr. White caught the ailment from them. The son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Stewart is just now recovering from the disease, according to the health officer. He has had no doctor during his sickness. Four other members of the family have been exposed. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Mock is suffering with the disease in a very mild form and other members of the family have been exposed. Raymond Kelso, who was first discovered with the disease Tuesday and whose illness caused the investigation to be made and the epidemic to be nipped in the bud, has a severe case, but he is not in a serious condition by any sense.

TO TALK AT CHAUTAUQUA.

James E. Watson will speak at the chautauqua at Worthing, Minnesota, Saturday. He has a number of other chautauqua engagements during the next five or six weeks.

HURT BY WIND PUMP.

Russell, the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Beebe of near New Salem, suffered a painful injury to one of his arms when it was caught in the mechanism of a wind pump. The upper part of the member was badly crushed.

PLASTERING FELL.

A portion of the ceiling in the Betker Shop gave way yesterday crashing to the floor. Mr. Betker and Eli Kinney were working directly under the part that fell and narrowly escaped injury. The plastering has been in a bad condition for some time and in all probability a metal ceiling will be installed.

TO GIVE ADDRESS.

Shelbyville Democrat: The Mauzy family of Rush county will hold their annual reunion at the Rushville fair grounds on August 17. D. L. Wilson of this city, and his brothers and sisters have been invited to attend the reunion, their mother having been a Mauzy, and Mr. Wilson will be expected to make one of the important addresses of the day.

GOING THE ROUNDS.

The case of J. E. Mobley of Greensburg against Hyman Schatz of this city on account, demanding $32.95 has been sent to the Bartholomew circuit court on a change of venue. The case originated in a j. p.'s court in this city and was later taken to the circuit court. From here it was sent to the Fayette circuit court on a change of venue from whence it went to Columbus. The costs in the case promise to be far greater than the amount involved.

SEEKS DATA ON LAND FUNDS.

Charles A. Greathouse, State superintendent of public instruction, will obtain from the State board of accounts a set of books containing information regarding funds which have accrued from sales of congressional lands, and data regarding the uses to which these funds may be placed. Field examiners have found counties holding such funds that did not belong to them and several deprived of the use of money that rightfully belonged to them.

All the new members of the United Presbyterian church are invited to spend tomorrow evening with the congregation in the social rooms of the church. A delightful evening is anticipated.

AMUSEMENTS

The Palace will have a complete change of program tonight. "A Case of High Treason" is one of Edison's best military dramas and is complete in every detail. The thrilling scenes of the picture are laid amidst beautiful surroundings and the acting is very strong. The other film is a Selig comedy "Discharging the Cook." A new song will be sung by Charles Van Camp.

The Portola will have the usual change of program tonight. The first film is an Essanay, "The Atonement." It is said to be a very touching drama and relates incidents true to life. The other picture is one of Edison's famous comedies. The subject of the picture is "Madeline's Rebellion." Tomorrow and Saturday night this theater will show the special Selig production in two reels, "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." The picture is an exact reproduction of the famous play of the same name and has proved a drawing card wherever shown.

The Vaudet has for tonight an Ambrosia feature film in two reels entitled "Grenadier Roland." The picture tells the story of the siege of Moscow, with the sensational battle in which Napoleon was defeated, the belching cannon, the battling soldiers, scenes of heroism and daring are reproduced in a most thrilling manner. The pictures show how Grenadier Roland plunged into the maelstrom of death and destruction to recover the body of his officer, the husband of the woman he loved in vain, and dies a hero's death. The pictures are complete in every way and are considered to be a spectacular drama. A new illustrated song will be sung.

Farmers Take Notice

It is being reported we will not be able to take in wheat on account of the work that is being done on Third street. We wish to say that this is a mistake, as the street is not torn up in front of our mill yet, and even when they do get to work on it, we have made arrangements, so that we can take care of your trade as usual, so when you start moving your wheat, don't forget us, as we will appreciate your patronage, and assure you the very best of treatment.

FOUR BIG NIGHTS

FOUR BIG NIGHTS

THE LASH OF CIRCUMSTANCE

She opened the door at the first sound of the bell, and royally beautiful in her cool morning gown, stood smiling before me. At first she seemed about to approach me even closer, but as her eyes sought my face she drew back and her smile vanished as the sunshine behind a driving cloud. "Hill!" she inquired, quick solicitude in her tones. I shook my head as I stepped within.

She closed the door behind me. "Oh, you men, you dissipate so," she said with an attempt at bantering. "But I am really surprised at you, Tom. I had thought your morals almost too immaculate. However, a walk in the outer air will do you good. We will omit the church if you don't care to go inside. I only used that as a subterfuge to get you to come, you know. Can you forgive such deceit in me?" I looked at her helplessly, marveling at her duplicity. The shadow of a frown came to her brow.

"Why don't you say something?" You only stand there and stare at me so unpleasantly," she went on with a trace of impatience. Thoroughly sick at heart I addressed her as I changed my mind again into the determination to confront her with her heartlessness.

"Mrs. Dace, I have come to tell you that I cannot see you any more. That you made a fool of me for some purpose of your own, it is of course not necessary that I should inform you. That you have wounded me greatly and caused me much suffering you may not know; but if it is any satisfaction for you to have that knowledge I now confess it to you. I do not think that I have anything more to say to you except to ask for the keys I inadvertently left here and bid you goodbye."

Her eyes opened wide and she stood staring blankly into my face. "I don't understand—what have I done?—you look so strange—" she stammered. I did not answer.

Her mouth straightened a bit and a chill came into her voice. "But I insist upon knowing. You have suddenly charged me with very unpleasant things and I have the right to demand an explanation in justice to myself. That right being given me, I may or may not wish to avail myself of my privilege to make a reply. But having had that opportunity you need not fear that I shall ask anything further of you. Still, I feel that there must be some mistake. You must explain yourself."

I turned my face from her as I answered bitterly:

"Had any one in the world told me what I now know I should have struck him down. When rumors came to my ears I always shut them out because of my faith in you. But what my own eyes see I cannot doubt. I had grown to trust you implicitly, and you yourself molded and cemented my faith by your protestations. That I loved you better than my own life I have told you and I think convinced you. You have paid me back with heartless treachery."

"I demand that you tell me instantly why you say these things, sir," she cried, the hot crimson flaring in her cheeks. With the cold deliberation with which a gladiator might dispatch his crippled enemy I returned to the attack.

"Last night I happened to be passing this place. I had no intention of spying upon you—I never dishonored you by such acts—but fate ordained that I should be just in time to see you alight with Richard Mackay. The door of the lower entrance remained open for a few seconds after you had entered. I saw your scene with him before you entered the elevator."

Never in my life had I seen such a change come over a human countenance as swept hers at my words. The color fled in a flash and her cheeks became ashy gray. Into her eyes the instant before so soft there leaped the glitter of a leopardess as she gathers herself for the leap. Tense and seeming to crouch, I saw the leopardess in every outline of her curved body. Then as suddenly she relaxed; the glitter faded and the heat of anger gave way to the coldness of scorn. She stepped backward with a mocking bow.

"You honor me greatly, my dear sir, and I assure you that I shall never forget it. Yesterday you told me that I was an angel exalted above your hope; today I am a fallen thing beneath your contempt. And all because of a miserable occurrence like that! And you would have left me with no opportunity to explain my guiltlessness had I not forced you to grant me that right."

"Your guiltlessness!" I returned as icily. "I have charged you with no guilt beyond treachery to me. You told me that no other man made love to you, and I believed you. You had told me that Mackay was merely your financial agent, and I pinned my heart upon your naked word. You have crucified it. Yet I could forgive you were it not for the fact that this man is married and has a family and you are well aware of it. I leave the question of your guiltlessness towards his wife to your own conscience."

Her bosom heaved and her hands tightened. "Listen," she said in a voice hard as steel. "You shall hear me out now, for there are things that you must know. Not that I care for your opinion, and not that I care to retain even your friendship after this, but because it is my duty to myself and to Mr. Mackay, who seems at least to respect me. I had told you much of my affairs, but not everything. Mr. Mackay made certain investments for my husband, and it was that fact principally that brought me back from the Orient. He has been kind enough now that I am alone in the world to protect them for me and give me the benefit of his judgment and experience that I might not have to exist on the charity of friends. That makes it necessary that I should sometimes see him. As to what the world says about me, I do not care the snap of my finger, for it has always maligned me and I do not even take the pains to deny what it may say. As for that 'scene in the hall,' as your highness seems pleased to designate it, I have only to say this. I was taken ill last night at a late luncheon at which he happened to be present with others, and he hurried me home in his car. I was very faint when we arrived here and he supported me with his arm across the walk and into the building. Before the elevator came down I must have lost consciousness for a moment, for when I regained my senses he was holding me in his arms to prevent my falling and bending over me as he asked me what he could do for me. In a moment I had recovered my strength and requested him to release me, which he immediately did. He escorted me as far as my door and left me there at my request after I had assured him that Janet would do all that was necessary for me. Mr. Mackay did no more than any other gentleman would have done under the circumstances."

In My Heart I Swore That She Should Become Mine.

The pride of her pulse was magnificent and the cold dignity of her tones that of an outraged empress. Never before had she seemed so beautiful, so pure, so womanly. And groping for something, no matter how slight, upon which to once more fasten my faith in her, my jealousy and black suspicions once more fled before her bearing and explanation, and in their place love and belief came surging back. The terrible smothering weight within me was lifted and I could have cried aloud in the blessedness of my relief. I fell upon my knees before her as I brokenly begged her forgiveness; clutching her convulsively by the hand and pleading my heart out that she be merciful. She listened in silence to my appeals until they were exhausted and then told me I must rise.

"I do not know what to say to you."

CHAPTER VII.

I have now come to the period immediately preceding the running of the Derby, and upon the events of that day I must dwell with some particularity for the reason that they form a very important part of this narrative. Mrs. Dace was to go with me. After torturing me by a week of silence and suspense, I had been received back first upon probation, and soon later, more or less unconditionally. It would do no good to go into the details of our readjustment of our former relations. There are some things which may be expressed by cold ink, but you have to see the human countenance with its lightning play of expression, and hear the human voice in all its wondrous inflections in order to form a correct mental picture of certain scenes. But on the whole her restoration of me was both womanly and gracious. I came to her a kneeling and penitent sufferer; she touched me upon the forehead and I arose healed. My spirits revived instantly in the sunshine of her forgiveness and I renewed my worship.

The race was to be the out-of-doors social as well as sporting event of the season. I was an admirer of the beautiful. Next to a beautiful woman, a thoroughbred horse appealed to me as the most perfect of the world's creatures. And although I had never bet upon them, I had kept myself well posted upon their performances through the medium of the press. Bruce, however, was an enthusiast. Coming in contact as he did with many of the more prominent horse owners and turfmen, he generally had a store of more or less reliable inside information as to both the runners and the jocks who rode them. Consequently I was not surprised when upon the second day before the great race was to be run he came to me in a state of whispering excitement.

"Say, old man, I have got the best thing that is ever going to happen in this world, and of course I want you to be in on it. I wouldn't trade it for Aladdin's lamp. You know that Eagle Boy horse that we have been watching for the last year? Well, he has developed into a simon pure world beater. I got this on the dead Q. T. from his owner who would break his arm to do me a favor. That horse is smashing all records by moonlight, and even the railbirds haven't got on to it yet. He is going to run away from that bunch like a locomotive leaves a mud turtle. And the odds will be long against him. I am going to plunge, and advise you to do the same. But if you dare breathe it I'll poison you."

I was not startled. As a matter of fact for some time past I had had my eyes on this great son of Black Eagle as much the best horse of the lot; therefore the news of his midnight performances merely corroborated my own judgment. I answered in an off-hand manner:

"I rather look to see him win myself. But you know I do not bet and therefore cannot take advantage of the opportunity. But I thank you just the same for the information."

Bruce's countenance fell. "That's so. You bonded fellows have to be pretty careful of your sporting transactions." He brightened up again and whispered hoarsely in my ear in stage fashion: "However, in this instance you had better take a chance; let some friend put it up for you; say some wise relative, for instance. A hundred or two lost would not damage you much, and a few thousand gained would be ambrosia and nectar." He winked cunningly.

she returned as I stood before her in abject penitence. "That you have hurt my pride more than it was ever hurt before perhaps you may appreciate. I scarcely know what to think of a love so ready to defame its object and so willing to condemn it unheard. Certainly I could never go through a scene such as this again. If our acquaintance is to continue as before, you must have unquestioning faith in me. Should you ever doubt me again I should despise you."

"I never shall. I have learned my lesson and it will never be forgotten. May I hope to be restored?" I begged humbly. She turned her face away.

"That I cannot say now. I have been hurt and it will take time for the wound to heal. Still, in a measure I am not without appreciation of your feelings, for if I lacked that appreciation I should have commanded you to leave me permanently before this. Neither do I think I blame you as much as some women might. But at least my day has been spoiled and I do not care to leave the house. Also, I wish to be alone. You may call me up in a week if you wish, and I will tell you at the end of that time how I feel about it. I do not now know whether I can bring myself to a total forgiveness or not, and if I find I cannot I shall so inform you. But I am going to try."

I would have given years of my life to have taken her in my arms in a final appeal, and must have made some motion that caused her to fear such an act, for she stepped backward quickly. "Please leave me now. I will send you the keys by a messenger when I have recovered myself sufficiently to make a search for them." I obeyed her instantly, humbly.

"I shall be hopelessly miserable until the week has passed, and can only pray that you be merciful," I implored from the entrance. She nodded her understanding and I closed the door between us upon my second banishment.

I did not receive my keys, however, until the next day. "Janet had mislaid them," said the note, and nothing more.

Once more I told him that I could not violate my traditions, and he shrugged his shoulders; and away he went at Eagle Boy speed himself, doubtless hot on the trail of some of his particular cronies to whom he could break the glad tidings. For when Bruce had a chance to do his friends what he thought was a favor he did not let the grass grow under his feet until he had done it. It was one of the traits that lay back of his popularity. Of course I sincerely hoped he would win, but I was always afraid that his recklessness would some day get him into trouble.

The afternoon upon which the race was run will forever remain seared upon my memory. I had been wise enough to put in my order long in advance at a fashionable stable, and as a result my two-wheel outfit was about as neat as could be found anywhere. As I drove up to Mrs. Dace's with the silver-mounted harness glittering in the sun and the cob arching his neck and tapping the boulevard with his polished hoofs as daintily as a dancing girl, I experienced much the same sensations as does a schoolboy on the first day of his long vacation when life as a well nigh endless primrose way stretches before him in a vista glorious to contemplate. I was at the full tide of youth and hope. Charged to the full with health and vitality, desperately in love with and half accepted by one whom I thoroughly believed to be the most beautiful woman in the world, I shook my fist defiantly in the teeth of the grinning specter of my lack of money. And realizing my domination for the day the specter cringed and fled before me.

The great migration of the day was in full movement. Automobiles were whizzing past honking like flights of wild geese. Victorias and traps, drags and tallyhoses streamed behind them in an endless procession. It was life teeming and exultant. The world was on parade dressed in its best clothes and with its pockets lined with money, and right royally did it proclaim the fact, its headache of the morrow an unthought-of thing.

Gray hair is a mark of age, and nothing that can be said, as to its beauty will effect the disadvantages of this mark of age set upon your brow.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy darkens the hair and restores it to its youthful beauty. Our grandmothers and their grandmothers before them used sage and sulphur for darkening their hair. It also stops the hair from falling out and makes it beautiful.

JURY CONVICTS SORGHUM M'COY

Muncie Train Bandit Convicted as Charged.

HIS ALIBI WAS DISCREDITED

Prisoner's Defense That He Was In Ohio at the Time of the Holdup Did Not Carry Weight With the Jury in the Face of the Identification of the Man by Passengers and Strong Circumstantial Evidence.

Muncie, Ind., July 13.—The jury in the case of Sorghum McCoy, accused of robbing passengers on a Big Four train near here last April, found McCoy guilty, the conviction carrying an indeterminate sentence of from five to fifteen years in the state penitentiary.

McCoy, who testified in his own behalf, denied he was on the train, and said two of the passengers had made a mistake in identifying him. He said he was in Fiqua, O., at the time of the holdup.

The defense rested on a conflict in testimony as to the description of the bandit, and the fact that only two of the forty or so passengers aboard the robbed train positively identified McCoy as the robber. McCoy's five terms in the penitentiary, and the fact that much circumstantial evidence was presented against him, also had its weight with the jury.

Conductor Zimmerman, of the train, said that he was in the rear of the passenger car when the bandit appeared and forced passengers to give up their belongings. He said he, as well as the passengers, were then covered by the robber's revolver. However, as the bandit backed out of the car, Zimmerman fired at him with a revolver that had been handed him by a passenger. A short pistol duel then ensued in which nobody was struck.

HE GOT THE FISH

But Came Near Giving Up His Life In the Attempt.

Lawrenceburg, Ind., July 13.—George W. Freyan, age fifty-two, a cabinet maker, who, with his wife and four sons, and his brother, Fred Freyan, all of Indianapolis, are camping on the Kentucky shore of the Ohio river, nearly lost his life in the river. Freyan, with the other campers, had been fishing with a large hook and a short line tied to a jug, when he caught a huge yellow catfish, and became so excited, he fell overboard. He went down twice with the huge fish, and when both man and fish came to the surface, they swam together. Freyan called to the others to come to his aid. After a struggle Freyan and the fish were landed. The catfish weighed sixty-three pounds, and is the largest caught here this season.

Looked Justifiable.

"He looks downcast."

"He is. He says he just can't forgive himself."

"Well, I don't blame him. If I were himself I couldn't do it either."

Surprising.

"What is his profession?"

"He's a politician."

"But you said he is poor."

He Pleaded Guilty.

Shelbyville, Ind., July 13.—Samuel Cohn was fined $10 and costs for selling unwholesome fruit here. A carload of bananas, said to have been condemned in Indianapolis, was sold here by Cohn, who pleaded guilty to the charge.

He Offered No Explanation.

Marion, Ind., July 13.—Jones Ludlum, county assessor, who mysteriously disappeared a week ago has just as mysteriously returned to Marion. He offered no explanation for going away without a coat, and without telling his family.

Lost Legs Under Train.

Monon, Ind., July 13.—Loma Ryan, age twenty-five, a switchman employed in the Monon railway yards here, fell between two cars and both legs were crushed. One leg was amputated below the knee, the other at the ankle.

Met On Dangerous Curve.

South Bend, Ind., July 13.—Theodore C. Wynegar was seriously injured and several others were badly bruised in a collision between two interurban cars in this city. The cars met head-on in rounding a dangerous curve.

Death Due to Mosquito Bites.

Logansport, Ind., July 13.—Barton Alfred Errick, age ten, is dead from mosquito bites. Blood poisoning followed the stinging of his ankles, according to the coroner's report.

Young Woman Shockingly Maimed.

Bloomfield, Ind., July 13.—Miss Kate Phipps, age thirty, of this city, fell under a Southern Indiana car at Midland and, both feet were cut off and one arm broken.

Fierce Electrical Storm.

Lafayette, Ind., July 13.—Lightning killed ten valuable horses at different farms in the vicinity of Otterbein.

JOHN P. WHITE

Head of Mine Workers Seeking to End Strike.

ARBITRATION MAY BE THE WAY OUT OF IT

Movement for Settlement of Indiana Coal Strike.

Terre Haute, Ind., July 13.—By restoring the custom of collecting fifty cents a month dues from miners for the international organization of United Mine Workers at the request of International President James P. White, the Indiana Operators Association perhaps has opened the way for the settlement of strikes in which 1,500 men are involved. Mr. White complained that as the strikes were state affairs the international organization should not be made the victim of a big strike, and that as its dues were involved, it could not aid in the settlement of the state strikes.

The operators have offered to submit the disputes to three of the four former presidents of the Indiana United Mine Workers, but District President W. H. Van Horn says the proposition is "child's talk."

The McNamara Case.
Los Angeles, July 13.—"Not guilty" was the plea of John J. McNamara and his brother, James B. McNamara, to each of nineteen indictments charging them with murder, read separately in Judge Walter Bordwell's department of the supreme court. The case was continued for trial until Oct. 15.

Illinois Farmer Killed by Lightning.
Palatine, Ill., July 13.—Charles Walbaun, a farmer living two miles north of here, was struck by lightning and instantly killed.

MANY VICTIMS OF THE FLAMES

Forest Fires Devastating Ontario and Michigan.

HIGH WINDS SPREAD TERROR

Loss of Life in the Mining Districts of Northern Ontario Already Estimated at 300 to 400 and the End is Not in Sight—Michigan Faces Worst Forest Fire Situation in the History of the State.

Ottawa, Ont., July 13.—Forest fires in the mining districts of northern Ontario which had been intermittent for a week, were fanned into a general conflagration by the high winds which set in Tuesday and for two hundred miles the new mining country north of Cobalt is a scene of desolation. Just what the loss of life will total up will not be known for some time, as the section swept by fire was being prospected by small parties without means of escape from the flames.

An estimate places the loss of lives in the Porcupine district at three hundred to four hundred. A stretch of three hundred miles of woodlands has thus far been burned over by the fires raging above North Bay. Three towns have been wiped off the map. Hundreds of refugees are facing starvation.

Seeking Safety in Flight.
 A train containing six hundred women and children was rushed out of Cochrane as the wall of flames advanced toward the village. The town of 2,500 inhabitants was soon a mass of fire and is entirely destroyed. South Porcupine and Pittsview are charred ruins. Two special trains have been sent to bring the 4,000 souls who are facing starvation or death by fire in the Tisdale district.

The flames swept down on the towns without warning. The alarm sent the people rushing for the lake, but they were forced to abandon everything. The town of Kelso was abandoned today after a fight lasting since Sunday.

SITUATION IN MICHIGAN

Northwest Winds Spreading Flames in the Lower Peninsula.

Detroit, July 13.—With three people known dead, scores missing who may have perished, two towns wiped off the map and nearly a dozen others reported either destroyed or greatly damaged, Michigan is facing the worst forest fire situation the state has ever seen.

Northwest winds, said to be the worst possible for a situation of the kind, are blowing down over the burned and burning districts of the northern portion of the lower peninsula, spreading fire in almost every direction. There is no rain in sight, and the weather men say that a long hot spell is all the state can expect for several days. Without rain there is certain to be a large loss of property—more than at present, and the figures reported so far will reach $5,000,000.

BETTING BARRED

Governor Also Stops Beer Selling at State Fair Ground.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 13.—Whereas Tuesday the lid at the state fair ground was soaring among the clouds, yesterday afternoon it was clamped down tight. Followers of the grand circuit races could neither bet nor quench their thirst satisfactorily.

Though neither the police nor the sheriff had acted, a representative of Governor Marshall waited on President Holt and Secretary Downing, of the Indiana Trotting Horse Breeders' Association, and informed them that the state laws must not be violated during the races. Consequently there was no betting. The three betting stands were empty and idle.

In Line for Another Term.
 Princeton, Ind., July 13.—Two burglars captured here with booty identified as that obtained from a Ft. Branch store which had been robbed, have been recognized. One is Joe L. Hammons, who escaped from the Oklahoma penitentiary where he was serving a fourteen-year term. Charles Moss, the other, is on parole from Indiana state prison, Michigan City.

NEW YORK NOW HAS A BOARD OF INEBRIETY

Drunkards Will Be Under Its Official Care.

New York, July 13.—Mayor Gaynor has appointed a board of inebriety, as provided for by a recent act of the legislature, which act makes possible the establishment by the board of an industrial colony to receive as inmates persons suffering from habitual inebriety. At their offices a bureau of records of males arrested for public intoxication shall be kept. Whenever any male person is arrested for public intoxication the board must be notified of such arrest, and the name and address of the person arrested given to the board. A field officer of the board of inebriety shall investigate the case and ascertain if the prisoner has any person dependant upon him for support, and all the facts about him. If it is found that the prisoner has not been arrested before, he may, after recovering from his intoxication, sign a request for his immediate release. In this request he must in addition to his own name and address, give names of any persons dependant upon him for support, must give his place of employment, if any, and must state that he has not been arrested for public intoxication within the twelve months next preceding. Upon the presentation of such a statement to the court the prisoner will be released.

The act provides that any male person who is resident of the city of New York, and who is adjudged by a court of record to be an inebriate, may be committed by such court to the board for a period of not less than one year nor more than three years. The board has power to parole inmates when their condition warrants. If any person committed to the hospital or industrial colony is financially able to pay his way, the board can collect money for his expenses.

WHERE IS CASTRO?

A Question State Department Would Like Answered.

Washington, July 13.—The whereabouts of Cipriano Castro, the deposed president of Venezuela, who after two years of exile, has endeavored to return to start a revolution against President Gomez, have not been definitely determined in spite of reports from Venezuela that he had landed at Castillejos or Goajira Point, and had raised an army of about 2,000 men. John W. Garrett, American minister at Caracas, advised the state department that he was unable to obtain confirmation of the report that Castro had landed in Venezuela, and that the Venezuelan government doubted the rumor. He added that it was impossible to find anyone who has seen or heard of Castro's presence in either Colombia or Venezuela within the last year.

WOMAN CAUSES A REIGN OF TERROR

New Castle Female, Armed With a Razor, Starts Riot in Little Country Hamlet.

IS FINED FOR INTOXICATION

She Threatens to Carve Telephone Operator During Drunken Exhibition in Dunreith.

Armed with a razor and a big package of booze, May Francis, who lives on East Broad street, started a small-sized riot in Dunreith, Tuesday night, says the New Castle Courier. The woman became angered because she was charged with telephone tolls after she had talked to New Castle and started trouble with night operator William Roberts at the T. H. I. & E. station. She drew her razor and threatened to "cut the gizzard" out of Roberts.

After her drunken exhibition the woman boarded the car for New Castle and was arrested here on her arrival. Wednesday she pleaded guilty to the charge of intoxication and was fined $2 and costs. Her brother-in-law, William Marshall, paid the fine.

The Francis woman and her sister, Mrs. Frank Marshall, were enroute home from Dayton, Ohio. The sister was recently married and had been in Dayton visiting. On her return Tuesday evening she found that her husband had deserted her and had gone to North Dakota to work in the harvest fields. She created a scene in the police station with a hysterical exhibition after she learned that her sister had been fined on the drunk charge.

PASTURE FATAL TO LIVE STOCK

Vegetable That Can Not be Found Poisons Animals That Are Turned Into Woods.

SHEEP AND CATTLE KILLED

Other Tennants on Farm Have Experienced Same Difficulty in Past Years.

Rather a peculiar state of affairs exists on the farm of Charles Major, near Flat Rock, says the Shelbyville Democrat. There is an extensive wood on the farm whose pastures have proven fatal to many animals during the past quarter of a century or longer. The farm at present is tenanted by Louis Isley and attention is again called to the situation through the fact that Mr. Isley has lost twelve head of sheep and two fine cows during the past few days because he risked turning his live stock into the wood.

Several other cattle and sheep on the farm are ill and the death list may be increased considerably during the next few days. Their condition, according to the statements of veterinarians who have been consulted, is due to a vegetable poisoning, but just what species of the vegetable world it is that has caused the trouble has never been determined. The affliction is commonly referred to as milk sickness from the fact that any person or animal partaking of the milk of a cow when she is in this poisoned condition will become instantly deathly ill and in some cases death has been known to ensue.

Older residents of the community recall the wood has always caused considerable trouble for the owners or tenants of the farm who pastured their live stock in it. The farm formerly was owned by Sidney Conger of this city about twenty-five years ago, and he and Andrew Winterrowd purchased a big drove of sheep and placed them in the wood which was at that time more extensive than at present. Within a week they found that the sheep were dying with a regularity that threatened annihilation of the flock. It was some time before they realized the real cause of the trouble and it is said that more than half of the flock had been killed before the cause of their sickness was discovered. Many times since then owners and tenants of the farm have suffered similar losses. Another peculiar feature of the situation is noted in the fact that no trouble is experienced from pasturing the woods during certain years. Even this, however, has been of no value in locating the kind of vegetable that causes the poisoning.

The entry docket in the clerk's office was bulging out yesterday evening after the four cases which were ordered sent to this county on a change of venue from Connersville a few weeks ago, had arrived here and were duly entered. Loper vs. Clare Curry, paternity charge; George and Jasper Coon vs. Hickson H. Stevens et al., partition, and State vs. William H. Osborne, an officer, for manslaughter.
